Part E: Cloze Test

Directions: Read the following passage and decide which choice (1), (2), (3), or (4) best fits each space. Then mark the correct choice on your answer sheet.

Each tiny piece of snow is called a snowflake, and each flake has six sides or six points. (141) ----- of snowflakes fall every winter, and the astonishing fact is that (142) ----- is different. A snowflake is as individual as someone's handwriting or fingerprint.

A snowflake forms inside a (143) ------ cloud when a microscopic piece of dust (144) ----- inside a tiny drop of water. This happens in the atmosphere, ten kilometers (145) ----- the Earth. The water freezes around the dust, and (146) ----- this flake is blown by the wind, it collects more drops of water. These drops freeze too, and the snowflake becomes (147) ----- to the Earth. As it falls, it passes through areas (148) ----- the temperature and humidity vary. It collects more and more tiny drops of water, and the shape (149) ----- changes. Some drops fall off and start to form new snowflakes.

This sounds simple, (150) ----- it is actually very complex, and mathematicians (151) ----- computers are just beginning to understand (152) -----

Every change in temperature and humidity in the air (153) ------ the snowflake causes a change in the speed and (154) ----- of the snowflake's formation as it makes its trip to the Earth. (155) ----- no two flakes follow exactly the same path to the ground, no two snowflakes are exactly alike. However, they are all six-sided.

Part F: Reading Comprehension

Directions: In this part of the test, you will read three passages. Each passage is followed by a number of questions. Answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4). Then mark the correct choice on your answer sheet.

PASSAGE 1:

Britain's first laughter therapist, Robert Holden says: 'We all know that laughing helps us feel healthy and alive. Each time we laugh we feel better and more content.'

But we could be losing our ability to laugh. A French newspaper found that in 1930 the French laughed on average for nineteen minutes per day. By 1980 this had fallen to six minutes. Eighty per cent of the people questioned said that they would like to laugh more. Other research suggests that children laugh on average about 400 times a day, but by the time they reach adulthood this has been reduced to about fifteen times. Somewhere in the process of growing up we lose an astonishing 385 laughs a day.

William Fry — a psychiatrist from California — studied the effects of laughter on the body. He got patients to watch Laurel and Hardy films, and monitored their blood pressure, heart rate and muscle tone. He found that laughter has a similar effect to physical exercise. It speeds up the heart rate, increases blood pressure and quickens breathing. It also makes our facial and stomach muscles work. Fry thinks laughter is a jogging on the spot.

Laughter can even provide a kind of pain relief. Fry has proved that laughter produces endorphins — chemicals in the body that relieve pain. Researchers from Texas tested this. They divided forty university students into four groups. The first group listened to a funny cassette for twenty minutes, the second listened to a cassette intended to relax them, the third heard an informative tape, while the fourth group listened to no tape at all. Researchers found that if they produced pain in the students, those who had listened to the humorous tape could tolerate the discomfort for much longer.

Patch Adams is both a doctor and a performing clown in Virginia, America. He is convinced that humor should be a part of every medical consultation. 'There's evidence to suggest that laughter stimulates the immune system,' says Adams, 'yet hospitals and clinics are well-known for their depressing atmospheres.' He wears his waist-length hair in a ponytail and also has a handlebar moustache. He usually puts on a red nose when seeing patients.

156- Which one of the following best represents the main idea of the passage?

- 1) Many people are trying to learn the forgotten art of laughter.
- 2) Most people can't figure out why laughter is the best medicine.
- 3) Doctors are concerned that our unserious side is not being taken seriously.
- 4) There is evidence indicating that laughing affects your mental and physical well-being.

157- The word "they" in paragraph 4 refers to -----

1) groups 2) r

- 2) researchers
- 3) cassettes
- 4) students

158- Which argument in favor of laughter does the author NOT point out?

- 1) It helps you fight illness.
- 2) It is a kind of physical exercise.
- 3) It is instrumental in lessening pain.
- 4) It helps improve your personal relationships.

159- Which statement best describes Patch Adam as a practicing doctor?

- 1) He practices what he preaches.
- 2) He is more of a theorizer than a practitioner.
- 3) He favors the idea of using clowns to treat patients in hospitals.
- 4) He thinks that laughter therapy in action is easier said than done.

160- Which phrase describes the writer's tone in reviewing the research findings?

1) Amused

2) Somewhat skeptical

3) Fair and balanced

4) Rather critical

PASSAGE 2:

The first person to reach the South Pole was Roald Amundsen, a Norwegian. Robert Scott, who was English, arrived at the South Pole a month after Amundsen and died on the return journey to his ship. Yet, strangely enough, Scott became a hero, but Amundsen did not Captain Robert Scott (1868-1912) was an officer in the English navy. From 1901 to 1904, he led an expedition to Antarctica for a British scientific organization called the Royal Geographical Society. His group traveled farther south than anyone else had ever done. He gathered information on rocks, weather, and climate, and he made maps.

A few years later, Scott decided to organize another expedition. He said that he wanted to make a complete scientific study of Antarctica, but his real goal was to be the first person at the South Pole. He took three doctors, several scientists, and a number of other men with him. Scott's group sailed on a ship named the Terra Nova in June 1910. When they reached Australia, they learned that Amundsen was also on his way to the Pole.

Amundsen and Scott were very different from each other, and they made very different plans. Amundsen planned everything very carefully. He took sleds and dog teams, as the great Arctic explorers did. Scott took ponies (small horses) and a few dogs, but he planned to have his men pull the sleds themselves for most of the trip. On earlier expeditions, as some dogs became weak the men killed them for food for themselves and the other dogs. Amundsen did this too, and it helped him reach the Pole, but later people called him "dog eater." Scott would not eat his dogs, and this was one reason he died on this expedition.

161- What is the writer's purpose in this passage?

- 1) To show that being an explorer was difficult in the past
- 2) To show why Robert Scott is the world's greatest explorer
- 3) To explain the history of certain explorations of the South Pole
- 4) To encourage the reader to learn more about Roald Amundsen

162- Which of the following statements is NOT true about Robert Scott?

- 1) The purpose of his first expedition was to collect scientific data.
- 2) He never knew there was an explorer by the name of Amundsen.
- 3) His men didn't kill their animals for food.
- 4) He didn't achieve his real goal.

163- Into which paragraph could the following sentence be inserted?

When Scott returned to England, he was a national hero.

1) Paragraph 1 2) Paragraph 2 3) Paragraph 3

) Paragraph 3 4) Paragraph 4

164- The author seems to be surprised by the fact that ------

- 1) Amundsen was called "dog eater"
- 2) Scott died on his expedition
- 3) Amundsen is not as admired as Scott
- 4) Scott didn't ask Amundsen to join his team

165- The passage states that Roald Amundsen -----

- 1) used more animals than Scott did
- 2) got rid of weak dogs on his expedition
- 3) influenced many great Arctic explorers
- 4) copied the design of the sleds used by Scott's men

PASSAGE 3:

Most archaeologists study buried houses, broken objects, and old garbage to learn important things about ancient societies. At the University of Arizona in the United States, however, archaeology students are investigating today's garbage. They hope to learn important things about modern society by studying its garbage. The Garbage Project started at the University of Arizona in 1973. Since then, students have studied garbage in cities in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

To study the modern world's garbage, students had to travel to landfills, the places where cities bury their garbage. While the students were studying the garbage, they wore special clothes and used safety equipment. Students were also very careful when they opened bags of garbage.

One thing students in the Garbage Project found is that the garbage in landfills disappears very slowly. That was surprising to the students, as well as to many scientists who had predicted that roughly 70% of the garbage in landfills would disappear naturally and quickly. Even in cities where it rains a lot, the students found newspapers from 1948, forty-year-old hot dogs, and lettuce from 1970.

The Garbage Project also revealed that what people say they do is often very different from what they actually do. The archaeology students asked people what they bought, ate, and drank, and then they compared this to what people threw away. For some reason, the two didn't match. For example, the students found many more empty cans of Coke than people said they drank.
